Great Campaign To Recruit Army

Be Aided Here

waii Instantly To Show
What Work Will Do

Now that Congress has passed an act to provide for a larger army, how is Uncle Sam to enlist the men for service? This is a question that has received a good deal of attention among military men here, as well as among others, and in view of the failure to secure enlistments enough to make up the additional 20,000 men allowed for by legislation some months ago, it now becomes an urgent problem. As it appeared to be shown by the experience of the past few months that Americans were not anxious to enlist, what result can be expected from acts of Congress which allow a much larger army but leave it to voluntary enlistments to fill the ranks?

Various Plans Are Studied
Various plans have been and are being studied by Secretary of War Baker, according to reports from the mainland. One of the methods that will be employed is the use of the postoffice throughout the country, if means of doing so can be arranged to meet the approval of the postmaster-general and President Wilson. It is suggested that all postmasters be made in a sense recruiting agents, under a special fee system that will allow them some compensation for the extra work, and it is thought that the use of their facilities for spreading information about army life and the opportunities for enlistment will bring in many thousands of recruits.

Movies of Oahu Garrison
Another advertising opportunity that will be used is afforded by the screens of the movie theaters. The war department plans to have films made which will show all the phases of army life, beginning with enlistments at the recruiting stations and carrying the story on to the time of the development of a first-class soldier. Hawaii will, it is stated, probably be able to furnish some of the best films of this sort, for the camps here, with their outdoor life, sports and generally attractive conditions, offer excellent subjects for showing some of the attractive features of soldier life.

Films To Teach Patriotism
Thus the films, taken in various parts of the country, will teach the reason of patriotism and at the same time give full information to the people regarding what army life is. Secretary of War Baker and Adjutant-General McCain are quoted as expressing confidence that these educational measures easily will bring in the couple of hundred thousand volunteers needed to bring the army up to the strength called for.

In this, Hawaii's recent experience is pointed to, in the matter of the national guard, as showing what can be done in the matter of enlistments by a vigorous campaign among the people. From a little more than a thousand men, Hawaii's militia quickly jumped to 5000 and while national guard enlistment is, of course, a good deal different from joining the regular army, it is claimed that this result shows enough interest in military affairs, once they are called to the attention of the citizenry, to warrant the conclusion that an intelligent advertising campaign, such as the proposed, will bring all the hoped-for results.

One Citizen Is Favored
Another feature of the new army bill which is discussed as of possible bearing on Hawaii, is a section providing for a civilian judge-advocate in the army, for overseas service. The statement was made in congress, however, that Judge A. C. Carson of the Philippine supreme court is the only person who could qualify for the position under the terms named in the bill, hence it may not have any particular application here.

FUND FOR ARMENIAN RELIEF ACKNOWLEDGED

The Armenian relief fund of $6000 sent from here has been acknowledged by Miss Mabel T. Boardman, chairman of the national board of relief, of the American Red Cross Society, in a letter to James A. Rath, treasurer of the fund here. Miss Boardman says that she thinks the Honolulu committee has done splendid work, and formally extends the thanks of the American Red Cross. At the same time she calls attention to the fact that there is still great destitution and suffering among the Armenians.

MILLS SCHOOL BOY FALLS THREE STORIES

Willie Silva, a sixteen-year-old boy attending the Mills School, Manoa, fell out of a third-story window of the school but probably will escape permanent injuries. He fell about thirty feet, but clutched at eaves and turned so that he broke the force of the fall. He was picked up unconscious and taken to The Queen's Hospital.

WAIALUA DENIES CHARGES IN SUIT

Three Important Law Firms Retained To Oppose Bishop Estate Ejection Action.

A general denial of the allegations made in the complaint is contained in the answer filed by the defendant company yesterday in the circuit court in the case of W. O. Smith and other trustees of the Bernice Pauahi Bishop Estate against the Waialua Agricultural Company, an action for ejectment. The Waialua Agricultural Company has retained three law firms, among the most important in Honolulu, to represent its interest in court. These are Thompson, Milverton & Cathcart, Frear, Prosser, Anderson & Marx, and Castle & Withington, while the trustees of the Bishop Estate are represented by Holmes & Olson.

The suit, as reported in The Advertiser two weeks ago, seeks to eject the agricultural company from the land of Kawailoa, near Waialua, containing an area of 14,685 acres, leased by the Bishop Estate to the Waialua Agricultural Company, the lease having still some twenty years to run.

It is claimed in the complaint in this action that the defendant company has violated the terms of the lease in question, in that it has not cultivated to its fullest extent and capacity all of the land under this lease, this being one of the vital covenants of the agreement. It is alleged that large portions of the land lie idle and uncultivated.

In a statement made to the press last week Edward D. Tenney, president of the Waialua Agricultural Company, said that the present suit is a friendly one, intended to have the court confirm the terms of the parties concerned the meaning of certain clauses of the lease. The Bishop Estate trustees have made no statement.

SPECIAL POLICE POWER ILLEGAL

This Is Point Affecting 150 Officers of Law Magistrate
Will Decide

A question involving the authority of about 150 special police officers was raised in the district court yesterday, by Attorney Lorrin Andrews, in the case of Niahooa, charged with assaulting an officer.

Andrews claimed that the special, which includes License Inspector Fennell and his assistants, are not regularly commissioned police officers. Ben Jacobsen, the officer whom the defendant was charged with assaulting, comes under this class, and Andrews asked that the charge of assaulting an officer be dismissed, on the ground that Jacobsen is not an officer. Judge Monarrat took the matter under advisement.

The holders of licenses as special officers, whose standing is affected by the question raised, are mostly watchmen, without pay from the police department. Fennell is the most important individual holding a special commission. Andrews based his contention on the provision in the statute to the effect that no person shall hold a position on the police force without having passed a civil service examination, and he took the stand and testified, as a civil service commissioner, that the complaining witness had not passed such examination.

CRIPPLED GIRL NOW HAS SPLENDID BED

Next Donation To Salvation Army
Home Will Be Auto

Some kindhearted person has made a little girl at the Salvation Army Home happy beyond expression, as published in The Advertiser last week. The small girl is a cripple and consequently her bed was her most near and dear possession. It was damaged beyond repair and the request made through this paper received a ready response, and the donor may have the satisfaction of knowing that he or she has made happy one little heart.

The garage at the home is still empty, but it is expected that soon it will house an automobile of some kind and the women in charge of this institution, which is doing such a varied and necessary work for humanity, wish it known that they are not particular about the make of this proposed car. The horse-power, shape of hood, seating capacity and other finer points in motor-car construction are all of secondary consideration, and should an ordinary serviceable machine find its way up the Manoa road, and like the garage and its general arrangement, it would be received with as many thanks as if it were the finest limousine manufactured.

Ashes of Young Smart Coming Here For Burial

Dying Request of Husband of Late Hawaiian Chiefess Is Being Fulfilled

Brought across a continent and half the width of an ocean, the ashes of the late Henry Gaillard Smart, who died some months ago in his Virginia home, after returning there from Honolulu, will arrive this morning in the Wilhelmina from San Francisco, in charge of a brother of the deceased.

Richard H. Trent, the bearer of the ashes and a number of friends of the deceased will take the urn containing all that remains of the late Annie Thelma Parker Smart's husband to the Waimea, Hawaii, leaving Honolulu at ten o'clock tomorrow in the Mauna Kea and landing at Kawaihine, on the Big Island.

It is planned to inter the ashes in the grave of the "Hawaiian Heiress," whose death preceded that of Smart only a few months. The urn will be out of respect to Smart's dying wish and request—that his ashes be placed in the same grave where his dead wife is buried.

Mrs. Smart is buried in the ancient Parker family cemetery in Mauna, near Waimea, and in the same grave Smart's ashes probably will be given final burial on Thursday.

SOLDIER CAUGHT WORKING FOR 'BOB'

Has Himself Arrested For Selling
Booze In Order To Cheat
Service

License Inspector Fennell got a tip yesterday by which he thought for a time that he had nabbed a very daring street booze-seller. It turned out that the man who was disposing of the liquor had really sent for Fennell in order to get arrested and jailed and thus discharged from the army. At least this was the story that developed from Fennell's investigation after he had made the arrest, and the prisoner was turned over to the military authorities, who will dispose of the charge against him.

It was in the postoffice alley in King street that Fennell got his man. He is Joseph Rich, private in the Coast Artillery. Fennell received word from two Hawaiians that a soldier was selling liquor in the alley, and with Assistant Inspector Ben Jacobsen he quickly verified the tip and made the arrest. When Fennell looked into the matter and found that the Hawaiians had been spending some hours in trying to find him and give him the tip he became suspicious, and an investigation revealed a scheme which is a "new one" on Fennell and the local police.

The informers confessed that they had been hired by Rich to get Fennell to raid Rich when he was selling, which Rich had done in the alley. It was Rich's idea that he would be fined and on refusing to pay his fine, sent to jail. This, he thought, would have the effect of terminating his service as a soldier. When confronted with the confessions of the two Hawaiians he had employed, he admitted that this was his scheme.

ART SMITH IS A REGULAR CUT UP

(Special Cablegram to Nippon Jiji.)
TOKIO, June 5.—Art Smith made his second flight at the Aoyama parade grounds in the presence of the crown prince yesterday. During the flight Smith attempted his tango dance, which proved to be a success. While the crown prince was watching the flight the American aviator planned over the palace and, taking both hands off the wheel, saluted the crown prince.

HONOLULU BOUND STEAMERS DELAYED

Manoa Will Sail Three Days Behind Schedule—Sierra Is Expected To Be Held Up

With cargo consisting of only ice-house goods, and passengers and mail, the Matson steamer Manoa is expected to sail from San Francisco for Honolulu Friday, June 9, three days behind her regular schedule, according to a radio received yesterday afternoon by Castle & Cooke, the local Matson agents.

Owing to the loading and unloading of steamers being tied up, it is thought by the company that they will be able to muster enough men to load the ice-house goods which will not be over one hundred tons. She is expected to arrive here June 16.

Unless the stevedores strike is ended before June 13, the Oceanic liner Sierra, may not sail on schedule, but will be tied up until the pending difficulties are settled.

Most of the cargo loaded in the Sierra is for Sydney and way ports, and a comparatively small amount for Honolulu. A large excursion of tourists for Honolulu are expected to leave in the Sierra. No definite advice was received by C. Brewer & Co., agents for the Oceanic Steamship Company yesterday.

STEAMER GOVERNOR FORBES TO BE SOLD

Rumored That Little Steamer
From Philippines Will Be Sold
In San Francisco

The Philippine steamer Governor Forbes which sailed from this port for San Francisco May 17, and arrived in the bay city May 26, will be sold in that port, according to rumors which are afloat in San Francisco shipping circles.

The Governor Forbes was formerly the German steamer Admiral Von Tirpitz, and since changing her name and registry has been operating in Philippine waters. The report probably arose from the fact that one of her owners made the trip over from the Philippines, and he is expected to negotiate the sale.

With a cargo of sugar consigned to Welch & Company, San Francisco, the Governor Forbes which is said to be the smallest steamer to make the trans-Pacific passage, completed the voyage from Manila in forty-three days.

On the way from the Philippines the vessel called at Yokohama and this port. After leaving Yokohama on April 25, water commenced to leak into her hold, and her officers had about decided to put back, when it was found that the leakage was caused by the removal of a covering to a coal chute.

Forbes was one of the steamers which was detached to Manila to relieve the freight congestion, which has been felt in the Philippines for some time.

FIRST STEAMER TO BE BUILT IN LOS ANGELES

Work Will Be Started On Two
Lumber Vessels

Los Angeles is about to enter the shipbuilding field. The first steamship to be built at the Southern California harbor will soon be under way at C. E. Fulton's shipyards situated at Mormon island and shortly after work on the first vessel has been started the keel of a second will be laid. Were it not for the fact that practically every other plant on the Pacific Coast is working to capacity, the contracts, both of which were awarded by San Francisco concerns, would probably have been placed elsewhere.

The Fulton shipbuilding firm is at present preparing for the construction work by enlarging the ways on which the steamers will be built and furnishing the plant with the necessary equipment. Immediately after the preparation is completed the actual building will be commenced.

One of the vessels is for Sudden & Christensen of San Francisco and the other for J. B. Hanify & Company also of that city. Both will be used in the lumber trade and each vessel will have a lumber carrying capacity of 1,500,000 feet. Only the hulls will be constructed at Los Angeles, and when finished, will be towed up the coast to this port where the engines and machinery will be installed at a local yard. The hulls alone will cost $112,000 each, but as the contracts for the engines have not yet been awarded, it is not known what the cost of each steamer will be when completed.

FIRST LAND TRANSFERS TO WHITE MAN UNCOVERED

As far back as 1846 the haole was trying to get what Hawaiian land he could and W. J. Coelho, in the land commissioner's office, yesterday laid his hands on the very grant and the very first award made in the kingdom by Kamehameha III. The land was in the Nuuanu valley, and the grantee was William P. H. an American citizen. The first award was made to Robert Kilday, a British subject, on May 30, 1847, a year afterward. Kilday's land also was situated in the Nuuanu valley.

WIRELESS TESTS WITH JAPANESE CAPITAL SUCCEED

Cable Advices From Tokio Tell of Third Tryout With Another
To Follow

MAY BE ABLE TO ESTABLISH
REGULAR DAY SERVICE SOON

Radio Span Then Would Be Longest In Commercial Use
In Whole World

According to telegraph advices from Tokio yesterday, a third successful test of the wireless service between Oahu and Japan was made, and it is predicted that before many days a fourth, and final, test will be made. If it is successful, a regular service will be established, and Honolulu and Tokio will then share the distinction of having the longest commercial wireless service in the world.

No wireless communications were received here from Tokio, according to a report received last night from the Kahuku station, and it is assumed that the message that came by cable telling of a successful test in Tokio means that Tokio was able to receive Honolulu messages.

Test For Day Service
The test was for daylight service, and was conducted at the Japanese end by Nichi Torikata, chief engineer of the department of communications.

Manager Hawk of the local Marconi wireless office said last night that he had no advice yet regarding any new test. However, he had hopes and expectations that a successful service would soon be established, and thought that the opening of a regular service would lead to large business. Night messages of considerable length have already been sent, but it is the regular sending at all hours that has been the problem.

"When Mr. Torikata was here about seven years ago," said Mr. Hawk, "he made tests of the service. When asked how long he thought it would be before Hawaii and Japan could communicate by wireless, he said he thought it would be twenty-five years. Recent tests seem to show that the problem is being solved much more quickly."

Greetings Exchanged
Last August night messages were exchanged between the Kahuku station and the Japanese station. Manager Balch of the Mutual Telephone Company and Chief Engineer Torikata became well acquainted while the latter was here, and while Mr. and Mrs. Balch were visiting Japan later. When the first successful transmissions between Tokio and Kahuku were accomplished, Balch sent his felicitations, and they were responded to in a quite lengthy message of cordial greetings from Torikata.

If the expected commercial service between Oahu and Japan is established, it will be over a longer distance by something like a thousand miles, than that covered by any of the Atlantic stations. The distance is about 4200 miles, but the operators at both ends, already able to communicate at night time under favorable conditions, expect before long to be able to maintain a daily commercial service.

TUTTLE HAS RESIGNED FROM CITY POSITION

James Guild Will Succeed Him As Engineer Statistician

Guy H. Tuttle has resigned as statistician of the office of the city engineer, after a few weeks of service, and it is probable that James Guild of the office staff, will be appointed in his place.

City Engineer Collins yesterday accepted the resignation of Tuttle, to take effect on June 15. He said that no definite appointment of a successor had been made yet, but when asked regarding a report that Guild probably would be the man replied that he was not ready to make any announcement.

THREE-STORY BUILDING WILL SUPPLANT THEATER

The building to be erected on the lot now occupied by the National Theater, is to be a three-story structure, the plans of which are not yet complete. The ground floor and basement will be occupied by the L. C. Ables Automobile Company, a new corporation now in process of formation, and the upper floors will be put into use by the Alexander Young Hotel as adjuncts to the kitchen and laundry, unless the plans are materially changed in the meantime.

UPPER PUUNUI OUTLET NOW BEFORE SUPERVISORS

At a meeting of the City Planning commission held yesterday at noon the matter of the location of the upper Puunui outlet was discussed and the plan of City Engineer Collins was adopted. It will be submitted to the board, naming Circle Drive as the proper road to be improved.

FINANCE COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER BUDGET

Figures Are Being Prepared To Submit To Supervisors

The finance committee of the board of supervisors is getting to work preparing figures for submission to the board for the caucusing to be done on the budget, which will have begun very soon to have the appropriation bill ready for the first of July.

Recommendations from the committee are anticipated to cut out all unnecessary positions and work during the coming six months. A comprehensive plan of action soon will be prepared, in which the heads of the electric departments, as well as the appointed heads of bureaus, will be taken into consultation for a general discussion as to their needs.

Their opinions are expected to be asked as to what savings, without crippling the work of the municipality, may be made from now until the end of the term of the present administration.

MISS METT AND VALENTINE
HOLT MARRIED TOMORROW

Tomorrow evening at St. Andrew's Cathedral, at seven o'clock, the wedding of Miss Sophia Mett and Valentine Holt will be solemnized. Mr. Holt, well known locally, is a son of James R. Holt, while the bride-to-be is a daughter of Carl Mett, late of this city, and is one of the belles of Honolulu. The bridegroom is assistant horticulturist at the United States experiment station, and his exhibits of hibiscus have been a feature of local flower shows for some time past. The newlyweds will spend their honeymoon at Haleiwa.

SEVEN ARE DELINQUENT IN DISTRICT OF MANOA

Seven delinquents are noted among the Manoa Improvement district land owners. Among them is James S. McCandless, who is on the Coast and who, by an oversight, failed to get in on time. Two others are in the same boat. Four of the property owners claim that the notice for the payment of the assessments was so short that they had not the time to raise the money. The matter of starting suit against the delinquents will be presented to the board of supervisors this evening at its meeting and it may decide what is to be done in the case.
